RT R. T. BRADES, RALLPAY. Twee:—" They may there's a beautiful city."

We hear and believe there's a city With walls and manaious tair, That the grandour of all earth's ages Can never with it compare.

It is up there,
We know, we are sure it is there. We tears, no death, no parting,

Within salvation walls:
Immortal, sin-elamed beings,
Only can walk those halls.
To go up there
Washed robes you must prepare.

For Jeens dwells in that city. He sits upon its throne; And only overcomers Shall there with Him sit flown. Ohrist's joy they share And reign with Him up there.

There's music in that city, Assets a mento in that only,
So sweat—for they all can sing:
And the hallelujah arches
With souge of triumph ring.
Up there, up there,
For eventors up there.

There's noon within that gity And Justs gives a place To every weary sinner Who seeks his saving grace. All may go there,
